

There are already many public forums such as cable, satellite television, satellite radio and the internet where people who wish to express themselves publicly using vulgar language and nudity are free to do so. Their first amendment rights are in no way curtailed because every forum is not open to that type of expression. It is important that some forums remain clear of those types of expressions for those who don't want to see or hear this type of material. I believe that such expressions are degrading. I must already be careful whenever I am using any of the media where such expressions are unfettered, I don't want to have to worry about it on broadcast television as well, and I especially don't want to worry about my children when they are watching broadcast television. Broadcast television isn't a paid service; it is the one service that almost everyone can afford. Please keep it free of this type of expression!

Thank you,
